

UNITY ALL IN THIS TOGETHER

This is the year that everyone has been waiting for. The year of the "lasts." The year that has been dreamed of since 2015, but has seemed to be decades away. The year of graduation. Although the same cycle of eager seniors awaiting the day that they are sent into the real world has not changed, this year has been very different from the past. This group of seniors has a special place in their heart for those that are being left behind at Crossings: teachers, friends, family, teammates. However, each and every senior is determined to leave behind a legacy that will leave Crossings a better place in multiple aspects. Athletic programs are forever dedicated to bettering and encouraging one another through every athlete in this class. Fine Arts divisions will be continuing on the sweet words and commitment of those who worked to solidify the programs into their current state. As children, the phrase "leave the place better than how you found it" is preached heavily, and that is exactly what this group has come together to do. To leave traces of diligence, persistence, enthusiasm, encouragement, and love in every classroom and corner in the buildings. Well done, class of 2019. Continue to spread your talents throughout the world, wherever needed.

CLASS OF

The football seniors show their excitement in the huge win (28-0) over Hooker in order to move on to the third round of playoffs.

The 2018-19 Student Council Senior Class Officers.

Nothing but huge smiles were brought out for the fourth and final Fall Ball.

Friends support friends. The student section, led by seniors, was the loudest crowd that has attended Crossings' games.

Athletic Training Pros.

"My favorite memory from being an athletic trainer would probably be pushing the 'cow' around practice to keep people hydrated. Being a trainer, you get to interact with some really strange people. Jessica helped solidify my decision to study medicine, and that it's not weird to be excited for some gruesome injuries. Commitment and doing your part even when no one else wants to is really important in everything you do."

- Stone Campbell

"I have loved being an athletic trainer for many reasons. Jessica has helped me throughout all four years of high school and has been extremely influential. She's taught me not to stress about things because they will most likely work themselves out. One of my favorite times was during the last away game during my junior year. The trainers all brought food and we ate it on the bus during halftime."

- Kenzie Emmert

Hooray for Homecoming.

This year, Homecoming was definitely one to remember. About an hour before the game was set to start, the opposing team forfeited, leaving Crossings with no Homecoming game and no back-up plan. The final decision was to go on with the crowning ceremony at the same time that the game should have begun.

"I loved homecoming and being apart of the court because I got to do it with some of my closest friends that I have grown up with. All of the activities after school were some of the best and entertaining events of the week," said Ryan McKee.

Student Council State took place in Bixby, Oklahoma on November 4-5. This was the first time in stucco history that CCS ran for OASC president.

Community service and giving back is an important trait to the class of 2019. The seniors attended Parmelee Elementary once each month to work with a student.

Senior captains, Trent Miller, Ryan Brady, and Cole McMurphy walked onto the field united for each and every coin toss.

Show choir has been a wonderful opportunity for many of the seniors. Being able to participate in such a high energy community left great memories.
